

The Massachusetts Office for Victim Assistance is offering a free training on:

Safely Accessing and Connecting to Technology & Social Media

This forum will survey the variety of ways victim service agencies both locally and nationally are successfully using tech to safely connect clients and program participants to resources and services as well as promote community outreach and education. Participants will leave with the knowledge they need to safely begin implementing such efforts at their organizations and within their communities. The forum's focus is for victim services providers.
